Gift Toy Animal
Called a 'Bug'

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 22 (UPI)—The stuffed animal Walter and Janet Wiley got from her former husband, Joe English, was more than a present, they contended in a court suit Friday.

They said it was an electronic "bug" planted in their home to eavesdrop on their private conversations. They asked for $20,000 for invasion of privacy.

The couple charged that English or people working for him monitored their private lives for 24 hours with the stuffed animal "which contained a battery-operated listening device."
